

MODERN SLAVERY STATEMENT

Harrison Catering Services Limited (Financial Year ending March 2026)

1. Introduction

We are committed to providing a high standard of ethical conduct within our business. We take our responsibility under the Modern Slavery Act 2010 ("the Act") very seriously. This statement outlines the steps we have taken and plan to take to ensure that slavery and human trafficking have no place within any part of our business or supply chain.

2. Organisation structure and supply chains

Organisation Structure

We are a family led, award winning business providing catering services to schools and industry. The company's office and service outlets are in the UK.

Supply Chains

We are committed to working with our suppliers to build greater transparency. We are committed to acting ethically and we expect the same from our suppliers. We have a dedicated Purchasing Manager who oversees all purchase relationships.

As a minimum we require our suppliers to commit to comply with all applicable laws and regulations and the Company's policies, including as a minimum meeting the standards set out in our Purchasing Policy. Furthermore, suppliers are subject to our due diligence checks further details are set out below. In addition to this, as supplier agreements come up for renewal, we shall review and if required, insert comprehensive anti-slavery clauses into our agreements.

3. Policies in relation to slavery and human trafficking

We remain committed to minimising the risk of modern slavery or human trafficking in our supply chain or any part of our business. We updated our Safer Recruitment Policy, in line with Keeping Children Safe in Education published in September 2025. All our policies are reviewed and updated as and when required.

4. Due diligence processes

Within our business

We have strict HR policies and standards to ensure compliance with legislation, including Right to Work, safeguarding awareness, equality, diversity and inclusion policy, enhanced DBS checks for those candidates working with children and vulnerable adults and reference checks for all employees.

We have introduced digital right to work checks. These electronic right to work checks provide a higher level of scrutiny and have improved our process.

We reviewed our compliance with modern slavery by ensuring robustness of internal escalation procedures and supporting documentation from our suppliers (including goods and employment).

During the year, we successfully passed a modern slavery audit by one of our key clients.

Supply Chains

Should any existing suppliers fail to meet our standards as set out in the Act or our Purchasing Policy, and such a situation is not rectified within a reasonable timeframe, this may result in terminating the relationship with the supplier.

If a potential new supplier does not meet the standards set out in our Purchasing Policy, they shall not become a supplier until we receive confirmation that this is rectified.

5. Risk Assessment and Management

Our risk assessment concluded that the main areas of risk of Modern Slavery could be in our supply chain and potentially with certain members of staff. Training takes place via our Harrison Learning Hub to ensure that relevant members of staff are aware of Modern Slavery, how to identify it and what to do if they suspect modern slavery.

6. Training on modern slavery and trafficking

Our bespoke Harrison Learning Hub has a modern slavery and trafficking resource which is mandatory for both new and current relevant members of staff. There is a requirement for all Site Managers and those involved in our purchasing processes to complete a Modern Slavery module on the Harrison Learning Hub.

Our Recruitment and Selection workshop for site managers continues to include training on helping identify key issues regarding modern slavery. This workshop runs as and when required throughout the year.

Our safeguarding module has been reviewed and updated.

7. Next Steps

We shall continue to review, audit and develop our supply chain due diligence and risk assessment to ensure a robust approach to supply chain risks. We will continue to make efforts to identify any significant risks in our business and supply chain and implement any actions appropriate or necessary directly with suppliers.
