MACO has gained the trust and reliance of its customers for high quality products, on-time delivery, reasonable price and environmentally friendly technologies. As part of MHI group, MACO abides by the same Global Code of Conduct and Procurement policy as described below in our policies.

OUR POLICIES ON SLAVERY AND HUMAN TRAFFICKING

MHIAE is committed to taking effective steps to assess, prevent, and mitigate the risk of modern slavery in our operations and supply chain. We aim to be transparent about these steps and expect the same of our suppliers and contractors.

In 2015, we adopted by board resolution the MHI Group Global Code of Conduct. The Code prohibits the use of compulsory or forced labour and child labour and requires us to maintain a framework of fair and just remuneration, fair working hours and benefits.

The Code is available at: <https://www.mhi.com/company/aboutmhi/policy/conduct.html>

As part of our activities to combat human rights abuses, MHIAE instituted our first Human Rights Policy (which was approved by the board in FY2020 and was updated in July 2024) in order to avoid causing or contributing to adverse human rights impacts through our own activities and to prevent or mitigate such impacts where they are caused by our business partners.

In July 2025, President and CEO of MHI reaffirmed MHI Group's commitment to respecting human rights across all its global business activities. The MHI Group Human Rights Policy is aligned with international standards, including the UN Guiding Principles on Business and Human Rights and ILO core labour standards. It promotes diversity, non-discrimination, freedom of association, and the prohibition of child and forced labour. The MHI Group Human Rights Policy applies to all employees of MHI Group and encourages business partners and suppliers to uphold the same human rights principles through education and responsible practices.

We continued to enhance the ways we work with our suppliers and our contractors, to ensure we apply common standards and philosophies to help the eradication of modern slavery and human trafficking. When we execute procurement activities on behalf of our parent company, we adhere to the MHI Group Procurement Policy and its core values of Openness, Fairness, Partnership and Compliance.

The MHI Group procurement policy is available at <https://www.mhi.com/company/procurement/policy>

In addition, we have put in place Global Policies and Procedures, including in relation to respecting human rights through our business activities including procurement activities. There are also Supply Chain CSR Promotion Guidelines available with regards to our business partners here: <https://www.mhi.com/company/procurement/csr>. As part of this procedure, we execute self-assessments on compliance within our supply chain and procurement processes based on a company standard checklist. This has helped us to develop a better understanding of the actors in our supply chain.

We ensure consistent communication of the Group Global Code of Conduct throughout our business and management at all levels, including:

- direct and interactive communication to new employees on induction.
- annual e-learning/training for all employees at MHIAE on the MHI Group Global Code of Conduct
- at regular General Manager meetings.
- through publication of the Code of Conduct on our internal and external websites; and
- through requirement for all our new staff to declare that they have read and understood the Code of Conduct.

DUE DILIGENCE PROCESSES

In order to identify and respond to modern slavery and human trafficking risks, we adopt a risk-based approach and have put in place the following processes:

- We identify, assess and continually monitor risk areas in our business and supply chains.

- We only work with reputable vendors selected and assessed by our parent company. We support our parent company to ensure such assessments remain current and up to date.
- We analysed (with the support of our external lawyers) our supply chain in order to better understand and assess the nature and level of potential risks within our supply chains. We use the outcomes of this work to take more targeted action in respect of any significant risks identified. We had provided a supply chain map to an external legal specialist and established our Assessment Manual which was approved by the board of directors in FY2022.
- To ensure that our employees know how to identify the warning signs of modern slavery and can take appropriate action in response, we facilitate focussed training on modern slavery in particular and the MHI Group Code of Conduct and Global Policies and Procedures in general. Further details are provided below under the heading "Training".
- We continue to share information across our group companies of any updates to governmental requirements/guidance related to modern slavery and human trafficking.
- We protect whistle blowers, including on issues related to modern slavery. This protection is communicated to all our employees through our whistle blowing policy and through our website as part of our compliance statement. We use a system with Ethics Point (known as our whistleblowing hotline), an external service provider which allows the submission of issues and concerns completely anonymously. The way to access the system and how to submit whistleblowing notification has been communicated to all our employees.
- Employees are also encouraged to raise any concerns or suspicions they may have regarding human rights or modern slavery abuses at the earliest opportunity to the Compliance Manager or Head of Legal via the Human Rights mailbox.
- We ensure that any employee with a grievance, including in circumstances which might relate to modern slavery, is listened to and treated fairly, according to our workplace grievance mechanism. To ensure transparency and accessibility, this grievance mechanism is integrated into our Staff Handbook and sets out the process by which grievances are investigated and the protections which are offered to the employee.
- MHI's EMEA Regional Audit team periodically conducts a review of the contents of the Modern Slavery Act Statement issued by MHIAE. The latest review took place in March and April 2024, following the previous review in FY2022. The objective of the audit was to ensure that the statement was valid and in compliance with the Act's requirements. The most recent review commenced in March 2024. The Regional Audit team and related functions (such as legal and corporate department) were aligned closely and cleared all the findings arising from the internal audit.

STEPS TO ASSESS AND MANAGE RISKS

Several functions in our organization support our measures to assess and manage modern slavery and human trafficking risks. These include amongst others:

- Corporate Planning, through their review of budgets and governance activities including recent development in related legislations in the EU
- Finance, Accounting and Tax, through their review of financial transactions, budgets, and tax governance.
- Corporate Communications, through their interactions with internal and external stakeholders, support the identification of potential instances of non-compliance.

- Purchasing, through the assessment of supply chain and self-assessment of procurement activities. We have also evaluated our supply chain maps across MHIAE with external lawyers and are in the process of finalising our Assessment Manual which is now in its implementation phase.
- Legal, through interaction with staff and management and with external law firms and legal advisors, ensure that we remain at the forefront of changes in legislation and corporate requirements. In addition to the above steps, we have also undertaken (in conjunction with our external lawyers) to keep related internal policies up-to-date and to analyse our existing obligations and trends in relation to existing and proposed business and human rights legislative mechanisms.
- Human Resources, through development of the relevant policies that cover our staff's interaction with internal and external parties (e.g., Employee Code of Conduct, Equal Opportunity, and others).

Our general managers (GMs) monitor day-to-day compliance with such initiatives with ultimate responsibility lying with our Managing Director and the board of directors. Within our current organization structure, the Managing Director also fulfils a role of the Chief Compliance Officer. In addition, compliance with the UK Modern Slavery Act is closely monitored by the Head of Legal.

Our company has a flat organization structure with open communication. Employees are encouraged to discuss concerns with their supervisors without fear of repercussions. This structure allows us to identify issues quickly when they would occur.

TRAINING

To ensure that our staff understand and can identify modern slavery and human trafficking risks in our supply chains and business, we continue to develop and provide appropriate training. In particular, we provide annual e-learning/training to all our employees at MHIAE on the MHI Group Global Code of Conduct in which we received a 100% completion rate for FY 2025. Also, we have been providing all MHIAE staff with periodical access to e-learning/training from MHI Group global perspective especially on "business and human rights" and from MHIAE local perspective especially on modern slavery. Notably, in FY2024, all MHIAE staff took a comprehensive Human Rights and Modern Slavery e-learning/training which incorporated recent developments in human rights-related legislations within the European Union. The training seeks to raise awareness of the warning signs of modern slavery and how they might arise in the specific context of our operations and supply chain and to explain to staff their roles and responsibilities in helping to prevent modern slavery.

OUR EFFECTIVENESS IN ELIMINATING SLAVERY AND HUMAN TRAFFICKING

To promote the effectiveness of the steps outlined in this statement, we have continued to maintain and publicise a clear organisational policy and ethos which rewards the identification of risk and promotes an effective response.

This statement was approved by the board of directors of MHIAE on 1 September 2026.
