Due diligence of our supply chain and business

Nest's business activities and supply chain are considered low risk for modern slavery. We operate in the financial services industry. Our major suppliers provide professional or financial services to Nest, they're based in MSA low risk geographical locations like Europe and North America, and are contractually committed to comply with the MSA.

One supplier to Nest uses locations in India to provide professional and administrative services. This supplier has confirmed that they support and comply with the MSA and specifically:

- Do not use child labour, or forced labour, or coercive employee practices for example the confiscation of personal documents.
- Comply with legal requirements around pay, working hours, rest breaks and holidays.
- Undertake due diligence on new suppliers and existing suppliers.

How Nest supports the MSA

- We enhance staff awareness of modern slavery through training and the promotion of modern slavery issues through multiple intranet articles.
- Our recruitment processes include background screening and right to work checks. We're also an accredited London Living Wage employer.
- We're an industry leader in ESG (environmental, social and governance) investment, using our funds and our voting and engagement policy to encourage positive workforce practices - including reporting modern slavery risks.
- We monitor and report on our MSA compliance actions to Nest's audit committee.

This statement has been approved by Nest and constitutes the section 54 Modern Slavery Act statement covering the period from 1 April 2021 to 31 March 2022.
