Policy Statement

H. Walton Ltd was originally established back in the 1920s as Corn, Forage and Provender Millers based at Old Goole Mills, Goole, East Yorkshire.

H. Walton Ltd have built up experience and expertise over the years in the supply of animal feedstuffs delivered by their own fleet of lorries to provide a fast efficient service to all its customers and prides itself on specialist knowledge and personal contact.

While maintaining these high standards the family run business understands its legal responsibilities with regard to Health & Safety, Employment law & welfare and work closely with the local Authority on all issues relating to moral duty and obligations to the community. All of our employees understand the importance of honesty and behaviour throughout the supply chain to maintain the high standards and reputation of the company and are encouraged to report direct to the directors (who have an open door policy), any grievance, complaint, or concern internally or externally.

H. Walton Ltd are part of a global supply chain aiming to improve the lives of workers worldwide by only purchasing feedstuffs from leading assured companies who strive for complete transparency in feed / food production having responsible, sustainable sourcing programs and supply chains for the future of trade.

Section 54 of the UK Modern Slavery Act (2015) Business Against Slavery forms part of the H. Walton Ltd HACCP team annual review and internal training program.
