This statement sets out the actions that we have taken to understand all potential modern slavery risks related to our business, and to implement steps to prevent slavery and human trafficking.

This modern slavery statement reflects on the actions we have taken to identify and address modern slavery risks in our UK operations and supply chain, and outlines opportunities where we can improve in the future.

We are aware that modern slavery is a heinous crime and a morally reprehensible act that deprives a person's liberty and dignity for another person's gain. It is a real problem for millions of people around the world, including many in developed countries, who are being kept and exploited in various forms of slavery. Every company is at risk of being involved in this crime through its own operations and its supply chain.

Modern Slavery Risks In Our Operations & Supply Chains

Modern Slavery Risks In Our Operations & Supply Chains

Our Operations

We assess the potential for our operations to cause, contribute to, or be directly linked to modern slavery on an ongoing basis. We consider the overall risk of modern slavery in our operations is moderate namely, the lower prevalence of modern slavery in the UK and the robust processes we have in place in relation to workplace relations.

We follow set protocols in the way we recruit people into the company via our recruitment practices. For example, we verify qualifications, conduct reference checking on prior experience, and verify the right to work in our country. We continue to monitor and engage with our staff on issues such as work hours and overtime, to ensure they are adequately compensated, and we monitor work patterns.

Supply Chains

We have also assessed the potential for our business to cause, contribute to, or be directly linked to modern slavery via our supply chains. Given the nature of our procurement categories and practices, our highest risk exists within our supply chain as we are manufacturing and sourcing goods from high-risk source countries. There is, however, the latent risk that we may be connected to modern slavery practices through the activities of our suppliers and their supply chains.

Modern Slavery Risks In Our Operations & Supply Chains

Our supply chain comprises the following main categories and we recognise that modern slavery risks exist in each one of them by virtue of the industry risk profiles and the globalised and often complex supply chains supporting the provision of goods or services:

Category	Generally known modern slavery risks
Product / Medical Device Supply Chain:
Manufacturing	Medical consumables and PPE are manufactured in factor.
Medical consumables (incl. generic & volume based, low-cost clinical consumables and diagnostics)	There is a presence of complex multi-tiered supply chains which may occur in high-risk countries and potential exploited labour.
PPE/Uniform	It is well documented the higher risk of modern slavery in the supply chains supporting the garment industry and mass-produced items manufactured in higher risk countries with components from numerous locations.
Shipping, logistics including postal and courier pick-up and delivery services	The use of subcontractors and agents together with the potential use of vulnerable workers places suppliers in this category at greater risk of being directly linked to modern slavery.
Operations Supply Chain:
Recruitment and contractors:	The use of recruitment agencies and contractors can lead to exploitation or less visibility on the supply chain.
IT equipment, software and telephony	Modern slavery risks are present in the supply chains that provide tech companies with the necessary materials to produce electronic goods, and parts of those goods. The manufacture of IT equipment has also been linked to modern slavery.
Travel services	The potential use of a vulnerable workforce supporting these industries in some instances combined with complex supply chains could result in greater modern slavery risks.
Postal, courier pick-up and delivery services	The use of subcontractors and agents together with the potential use of vulnerable workers places suppliers in this category at greater risk of being directly linked to modern slavery.

Modern Slavery Risks In Our Operations & Supply Chains

Geographic risks

The operations and supply chains of the Reporting Entities are involved in the following regions which may be at risk of modern slavery:

- Asia: We procure and assemble most of the PPE and medical consumables components from manufacturing sites based in China and India.
- Global: Our suppliers manufactured or procured goods and/or services from a range of countries including Australia, the United States, the United Kingdom, the Philippines, China and India. We recognise China is a high risk country for the manufacture of PPE, as referenced in the Global Slavery Index (GSI).

Section Four

Actions Taken to Assess & Address The Risks of Modern Slavery

Risk Assessment

In the past year, we conducted a risk assessment of our supply chain by considering:

- Intertek workplace conditions assessment of key manufacturing sites indexed against industry benchmarks.
- UK Cabinet Office Modern Slavery Assessment.

Those assessments determined our response and the risk controls that we implemented.

Policies

2San Global Ltd has implemented the following policies published on our website for identifying and preventing slavery and human trafficking in our operations and supply chain:

- Whistleblowing Policy - we encourage all employees, customers and suppliers to report any suspicion of slavery, exploitation or human trafficking.
- Anti-Slavery & Human Trafficking Policy - our policy encourages employees and other stakeholders to do the right thing by clearly stating the actions and behaviour expected of them to eradicate modern slavery and exploitation.
- Ethical Sourcing Policy and Supplier Code of Conduct - our Code and supplier contracts make specific reference to tackling slavery and human trafficking.

Supplier Due Diligence & Contracting

2San Global Ltd conducts due diligence on all new suppliers during on-boarding and on existing suppliers at regular intervals. This includes:

- Assessing risks in the provision of services.
- Auditing the suppliers using external auditors, including their health and safety standards, labour relations and employee contracts.
- Monitoring and reviewing employment practices.
- Exiting relationships with suppliers or sanctioning suppliers that fail to improve their performance in line with our requirements.

2San Global Ltd's contracts contain up-to-date anti-slavery and exploitation provisions and we are committed to tackling these issues.

Training

2San Global Ltd has raised awareness of modern slavery issues by making training mandatory as part of the induction process for staff and freelance contractors.

The training reinforces:

- Our commitment in the fight against modern slavery
- Red flags for potential cases of slavery or human trafficking
- How employees should report suspicions of modern slavery

Awareness

In addition to the training programme, 2San Global Ltd will incorporate relevant content in the all-staff communications as part of the communication programme to raise awareness, monitoring and detection and ensure this takes place annually.

Section Five

Assessing Effectiveness

Measuring How We Are Performing

2San expects its suppliers to abide by all applicable laws and regulations and maintain the highest ethical standards. Over the next financial year, 2San will continue to develop and begin reporting on a set of key performance indicators and controls to monitor modern slavery and human trafficking risks in our organisation and supply chain.

These will focus on:

- Updated staff training to build ongoing and continued awareness and understanding of modern slavery risks across the business.
- Continual assessment and regular reporting to the board.
- Implement supplier questionnaire completion tracking.
- Conduct manufacturing supply chain audits linking to our Quality Management System with a risk-based approach for selecting, evaluating, approving, and monitoring direct suppliers.
- Conduct pulse thematic surveys to raise awareness of exploitation identification, reporting and monitoring.
- Continue to review and update our relevant policies to improve our response to modern slavery risks.
- Continue to review and improve transparency and accountability within our procurement practices in relation to modern slavery risk in our supply chain.
